Fund Commentary

The Fund benefited from the positive performance of the underlying equities portfolio, particularly Baidu and Turquoise Hill Resources. This was offset by a strengthening Australia Dollar.

Chinese web services company Baidu was the largest contributor to performance, advancing 26% after its second quarter earnings exceeded consensus estimates by a wide margin. Baidu's underlying earnings trajectory should continue to improve as the year progresses. Revenue growth is expected to accelerate as regulatory issues impacting the core search business over the past 12 months have now been addressed. Management's decision to reduce its investment spend, particularly in the online-to-offline business, should also support margin growth.

Turquoise Hill also contributed meaningfully after rising 24% during the month. The strong share price performance followed moves in the copper price which was 7% higher for the month. During the company's second quarter results management indicated that the Oyu Tolgoi underground expansion remains on track for a 2020 production start. At peak production the Oyu Tolgoi mine, located in Mongolia, will be one of the world's largest copper mines and will operate in the first quartile of the cost curve.

The Australian Dollar advanced 4% in tandem with long term interest rates after positive commentary from the RBA reduced expectations of further rate cuts. The recent increase in commodity prices - iron ore rebounded 20% over the month - was also positive for the Australian Dollar, having a negative effect on portfolio returns.

PM Capital Limited, founded in 1998, is a globally-focussed fund manager that invests money on behalf of private clients, the clients of financial advisers and institutions. PM Capital's goal is to build long term wealth by investing in global markets with patience and conviction.

Investment philosophy

We aim to build long term wealth together with our co-investors by finding and exploiting investment anomalies. Using a focused, patient and considered approach to finding simple investment ideas produces the best environment for creating that long term wealth.

Our experience has shown us that while the market is largely efficient, it can, and regularly does, misprice a small proportion of companies. This mispricing can arise as a result of any number of reasons, but is most often associated with disruptive or cyclical change, new information which is misunderstood by the market as having a permanent impact when it is in fact transitory, or just because they are operating in a sector out of favour with investors.

Our unique process is based on scanning the world for those companies (hence the radar in our logo), discovering the associated valuation anomalies and extracting value from them. We buy good businesses at a good price; businesses that we believe are being valued differently to their long term intrinsic value, but will return to their correct value over time.
